NATURAL ENLIGHTENMENT

BY GEOFFREY HOPPE

Tobias' last words to me when he left three years ago were simple and profound. We had just finished his last channel at the Tobias Farewell Celebration in Breckenridge, Colorado. The date was July 19, 2009.

After he said his last, "And so it was" to the audience of nearly 500 Shaumbra, he walked down the aisle and out the ballroom doors. It was a stunning, poignant moment. Tobias and I walked out into the sunshine on this gorgeous Colorado afternoon. Nobody else was around, just my angel friend and me. We paused for a moment to take a deep breath, and Tobias said, "Your enlightenment is natural." Then he thanked me for our times together and departed. I haven't heard from him since.

I've thought about his message many, many times since then. My enlightenment is natural? I understood this in a philosophical way, as in "I am already ascended blah, blah, blah" but I was challenged to feel the truth in it. All I needed to do was take a look inside and outside myself to know that I hadn't yet integrated this wonderful concept.

Adamus has been talking about natural enlightenment in many recent workshops. He brought it up again during his presentation at the Kryon Summer Conference in Sedona in early June (see "Adamus: Unleashed in Sedona"). I think it took the audience – mostly non-Shaumbra – by surprise. After all, we've all been searching for enlightenment for a long time and we've gone through many challenges in our pursuit. Now Adamus says it's natural, until we make it unnatural.

Does that mean we don't have to do anything, think anything or pay anything for enlightenment? What if we only needed to be here, in the sacred Now moment, to receive and experience it?

Adamus says that once you make the choice for enlightenment, it will unfold. Could it be that simple? Just thinking about it, I have the tendency to study how to make it natural. I want to ask Adamus for all of the natural guidelines and natural things I should do to make it natural. I wonder if there is a Natural Guru to help me with my natural enlightenment. I like the sound of it – Natural Enlightenment – but I'm not sure where to start because I was always a jacket and tie guy. Maybe I need a hemp robe and beige sandals?

Adamus claims that we find nearly every way possible to make enlightenment unnatural. Through our human mind we plan it, structure it and make it into a goal rather than an experience. Spiritual teachers who are not enlightened teach classes about enlightenment. The moment we don't think our enlightenment is unfolding properly, we slap ointment on our bodies and drink an enlightenment-enhancing energy concoction.

Allowing enlightenment as a natural process is a huge paradigm shift. In times past the consciousness wasn't as expanded as it is now so few opened to it and even fewer realized it. There is more information available now than ever before, so it's easy to share information and experiences with others who are going the way of natural enlightenment. We have more opportunities to gather together in person in order to create the safe space for enlightenment.

In the June Shoud Adamus said that we now come to the end of evolution. It's time to stop the effort of evolving our selves and start living. It's all part of the natural enlightenment process.

I have come to learn that "natural" doesn't necessarily mean easy. There are still everyday challenges – when I view them as challenges. On my good days I know that everything happening in my life is part of the natural unfolding of enlightenment. A lot of this has to do with releasing because there is a lot to be released with from the old human constructs as part of enlightenment.

Many inner energies shift, which in turn cause changes in our lives. If these changes are viewed with resistance it makes natural enlightenment very difficult, whereas if the changes are viewed as a part of enlightenment one comes to understand the blessings of the experience.

Adamus has explained that the Body of Consciousness will have natural enlightenment because it has already been chosen by the soul. Now it is up to the human to allow it, and experience it.

Let's celebrate our natural enlightenment by not interfering, and having peace within, knowing that everything in our lives is now about this natural gift.

TOP 11 REASONS FOR NOT BECOMING ENLIGHTENED

Upcoming Teleclass with Geoffrey and Linda Hoppe

July 10, 2012 • 6:00 PM Denver time (8:00 PM Eastern)

With all the spiritual searching humans have done for years, lifetimes and eons, ultimately we are all looking for the same thing. Whether you call it spiritual enlightenment, ascension, or simply transcending the human condition, it's a constant and generally elusive goal that keeps us moving forward. But, when posed with the question "When will you choose enlightenment?" many people realize that they don't know what enlightenment is. And, perhaps more interesting, they're not so sure they are actually ready for it.

What are the real blocks we place between ourselves and our own enlightenment? Listen in as Geoffrey & Linda Hoppe review the Top 11 Reasons for Not Becoming Enlightened.

SHAUMBRA VIENNA

New Energy Conference

SEPTEMBER 7 - 9, 2012
VIENNA, AUSTRIA

3 AMAZING DAYS OF CHANNELING, MUSIC & FUN!

CLICK HERE for more information

Once a year Shaumbra from around the world gather to celebrate life, the New Energy and the journey we share together. It's called the New Energy Conference and it will be held this year in beautiful Vienna, Austria.

The three-day event will be filled with messages from Adamus, Kuthumi, the Archangels and Ascended Masters, presentations from leading spiritual explorers, plus lots and lots of music throughout the day and night, and the love and camaraderie of Shaumbra.

The 2012 Shaumbra gathering will be held in Klosterneuburg, Austria, about 15 kilometers north of majestic Vienna. Klosterneuburg is a charming small town in the hills above Vienna, with a variety of shops, restaurants and sleeping accommodations. The Babenbergerhalle (meeting hall) is ideal for a Shaumbra gathering, with plenty of room, a professional sound system, and within easy walking distance to local services.

This year we will use a sacred combination of channeling and music to allow a deep integration of the energies into the Body of Consciousness. There will be a music set as part of each channel so that the energies can continue to rise and flow long after the words are spoken. We're blessed with having a high-consciousness group of musicians on the team in Vienna, which was also the home of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart for many years.

Since 2002, the Shaumbra New Energy Conference has been a place

The Essence Experience will focus on three key elements: Creativity, Grace and Trust. These are core elements of our spirit essence, but often suppressed or distorted in our everyday human experience. During this interactive three-day gathering we will explore, experience and ground these fundamental attributes while releasing energies that have inhibited our lives.

The tentative outline includes:

Creativity – A Soul Essence

- How to recognize your creator and creative energies
- How to bring your creative energies into focus
- How to apply creative energies into new projects and ventures

Grace – A Soul Essence

- What is grace?
- The principals of living in grace
- How grace heals and resolves
- How grace shifts chaos energy into harmonious energy

Trust – A Human Attribute

- Assessing your current level of internal & external trust
- Forces that disrupt trust
- How to develop trust in your self and soul
- How trust enhances grace

The Essence Experience is limited to 125 attendees. It is not intended for processing or therapy, but rather to move into new levels of creator consciousness. Attendees will participate in a variety of interactive discussions and experiences throughout the weekend.

About Jim Self

Jim Self, a guest speaker at the 2011 Crimson Circle Midsummer New Energy Conference, has become very popular with Shaumbra because of his clear message, compassionate personality and keen understandings of life in the New Energy.

Jim (www.masteringalchemy.com) is an international speaker, author and leader in the field of spiritual development. He has been leading seminars on personal energy management and the Tools of Mastering Alchemy for over 32 years. Since childhood, Jim has had the ability to recall his experiences within the sleep state. Over the last ten years, this awareness has expanded into relationships with the archangels, ascended masters and teachers of light. The tools and information presented in the program, Mastering Alchemy, is a co-creation of these relationships.

ADAMUS: UNLEASHED IN SEDONA

NEW FROM ADAMUS!

Here's the scene: Adamus is in the New Age mecca – Sedona, Arizona. He's in front of an audience of 800 lightworkers at the Kryon 2012 Summer Conference Channeling Spectacular, most of whom had never heard him before. What do you get?

Lots of laughter, profound information, belief-shaking insights and a splash of controversy, all packed into a lively presentation and topped off with a long standing ovation from the audience.

It's Adamus, unleashed in Sedona.

The session starts out with a warm introduction by Lee Carroll, the original Kryon channeler and event host, and then opening comments and background information from Geoffrey and Linda Hoppe. Anders Holte takes the stage with Geoff and Linda to sing the beautiful "Returning" song, last sung live at Tobias Farewell in July 2009. Then Linda guides the audience in breathing, and finally Adamus announces his arrival.

Adamus goes from A – Z, talking about abundance, aliens, ascension, ascended Masters, evolution, love, the dark side, the Ancient Ones and the New Earth. He retells his story of being trapped in a crystal, spells out the meaning of Makyo, and ends up doing a Merabh of awakening with the audience as Anders Holte provides background tones.

Adamus: Unleashed in Sedona is entertaining and informative. You'll love every minute of this energizing channel, and it's a great gift for anyone not familiar with Adamus Saint-Germain.

BEYOND or LIVING CAUSE AND EFFECT WITHIN YOUR DREAMS

By Dr. Joachim Wolfram – Crimson Circle certified teacher

Decades ago, striving for true freedom, I came across an ancient text declaring that whatever phenomenon shows up is purely brought into existence by one's own mind. Intuitively I felt a deep "Yes" to this statement and all of its implications. Rationally I double-checked with my worst-case scenario approach: What would happen if I lived according to that statement, but in the end it turns out it was false? Well, I might die under the illusion of having lived in a self-created world, fully responsible for myself, on my way to true freedom, when in reality I was the puppet of some outer forces, be it a god or some super-entities, or just even the laws of physics. So I said to me, well, better live in that illusion of liberty than bowing to some unknown outer whatever.

And then the fun began.

I asked myself, what exactly is it in me that brings forth the things that I experience? Surely this is all the conditioning of ages, accumulated in the body consciousness, helping in raw survival, as well as layers upon layers upon layers of beliefs. Being truly free would mean to be somehow able to shift, shape, recreate or dissolve these beliefs and conditionings.

So, young as I was, I started playing with beliefs, trying to change habits and overcome difficulties of my daily life by working with affirmations. And boy did that work! But it lasted only for the time that I could focus a tremendous amount of energy on these new want-to-have beliefs and behaviors. In total it turned out to be utterly frustrating, though it served me very well in going through university tests. Some good self-programming intended to last a few hours? A piece of cake. Still, internally, you know it's fake. You do not own this capacity. You just managed to control those things inside of you that are trying to blow off your nice internal feeling or outer image that you show to the world. More sooner than later it will collapse.

So at that point I cursed affirmations. And I still do, especially if they come in some spiritual context, like classic mantras ("Om mani padme hum"), or new age mantras ("I am the creator of my life"), or even a Shaumbra mantra, such as "I am that I am." As a reminder this is just fine; as affirmation, it is just another belief in the backpack.

The core reason why adding beliefs does not work is that they conflict with other beliefs – beliefs that might be stronger, older, and most often unconscious. Since adding more beliefs did not work, then the question became, is it possible to go so deep inside to a consciousness that is even before beliefs, meaning before creation of the next instant of existence as I experience it? "Yes," said that voice within, and letting go seemed to be the key.

Letting go of what? Of everything. Sounds exciting. Is exciting. It turns out though that the journey of letting go takes quite a while. While letting go of certain things in one area, other things start piling up in another area. Maybe they are nicer, or more appropriate, maybe even necessary in order to not go crazy. But still they hold you back. It took me more than two decades to deconstruct whatever things I noticed were defining my life without my explicit permission or at least conscious acceptance.

Or so I thought.

For a while now there has been this nagging intuition in me that shouts "Look at me! Here is something BIG that you do not want to see. I even name it for you – cause and effect. Hah!"

This intuition is not only disturbing, it is like that demon at that final doorway, grinning at you as it watches your hesitation.

Looking deeper at this cause-and-effect thing it seems obvious that it is not only at the very core of physical existence, but also at the core of every experience. In other words, the better the understanding of cause and effect in a given situation, the smoother one's life

Tuning into the HARMONY OF YOUR SOUL

Gerhard Fankhauser & Einat Gilboa

In the ancient mystery schools music was understood as a sacred art and bridge between earth and heaven. In this workshop you will receive timeless teachings of the mysteries of music, experience sound and voice as a tool for healing and transformation and expand with your consciousness into the cosmic music and universal harmony of life.

In using a combination of audio-visual experiences, sacred sound journeys and guided practices you will be invited into a safe space of presence, healing and integration. By opening the resonance of body, breath and voice you are creating a stronger resonance also with nature, the cosmos and all dimensions of life, tuning into the harmony of your soul.

A note from Geoffrey Hoppe:

Music is much more than sounds and tones. It opens the pathways to the soul, and allows the inner and outer energies of life to move in grace. Gerhard and Einat are true masters at teaching today what was taught about music at the ancient Mystery Schools. I highly recommend this workshop to all Shaumbra!

will enfold. Therefore humanity has undertaken every effort to understand cause and effect, starting from the simple to the very complex.

Now imagine a computer scientist. In his programming he lives in a perfect world. He knows all the building blocks and can arrange them at will. He is actually the one that defines the potential causes and the resulting effects. He is the true creator of realms. So, in a sense, while programming, he is at that point before creation. He is free to shape whatever experience is possible in that realm. In other words: He is in total control of his world.

Gotcha! The demon at the final doorway is rolling and laughing.

Not only does the demon sense the pride of that in-full-control-programmer-god, he sticks out his tongue and proclaims "You will never get beyond the belief of cause and effect because you love to be in control of the effect. You have let go of everything but this craving for your ability to control your world. This is your very prison, silly human!"

Hmph. Having spent the better part of every day programming for the last 30 years, I take that very personal. But, as is so often true, your demons are your best friends.

Imagine for a moment that you have even let go of that most fundamental belief in cause and effect. Obviously that would catapult you out of the standard human consciousness, and it would raise a serious question: Why continue living in these restrictions of time, space and form, surrounded by humans bowing to cause and effect on every level, trying to control it wherever they can? Perhaps the harshness of these conditions was one of the core reasons why the Ascended Masters usually left the planet so soon after their ascension.

It is said though that these days the conditions are better for staying here after ascension. But apart from inspiring other humans, and incidentally helping to unlock the energy impasse in all of existence, what's in for us?

Maybe, just maybe, continuing to have a human body while letting go of the belief in cause and effect allows for a whole new level of physical and non-physical experience. Maybe this is what Adamus has lately called "Living within your dreams."

Looking at that demon, lingering at his fake door, I now see a slight uncertainty in his laughter, and behind his masquerade a smiling heart.

Dr. Joachim Wolfram spent many years as a buddhist monk and a computer programmer, and is also a certified Crimson Circle Advanced Studies teacher.

"Best workshop I have attended - fantastic!"

What is normal?

By Adamus Saint-Germain

Excerpt from a recent channel given for the Keahak I participants.

I Am that I Am, Adamus of Sovereign Domain.

So much going on these days. Very interesting to note that the world is getting crazier, and that you're actually getting back to normal. Very interesting, for what is normal? Normal, the normal state, is a state of grace, a state of ahmyo, where you have implicit trust in yourself, whether you are here or wherever you go you are just experiencing the joy of life and creation. That is normal.

When you can go into any realm and experience what it's like without fear of having it consume you, kill you, steal your heart or your soul. That joy of life is being able to create anything that you choose to create for yourself and take great pride and joy and honor in your creation and not worry that the creation is so grand that it's going to hurt others or hurt yourself, to be able to create something and not worry that it's going to turn into a monster or a destroyer.

Normal is where you don't need that destroyer energy in your life anymore, where you can just be, experience, create, feel, sense. Ah, that is normal. That is where you are heading. That is where some of you are so very, very close, getting back to yourself.

You've had a long, long journey on this planet. A journey that has taught you in many ways how to not love yourself, how to not trust yourself, how to fear what others might have, how to fear even your own powers, how to close down. That is abnormal.

So you return now to normalcy. You go into experience without fear. You create without holding back. And it's happening, indeed.

Yes, the world is getting a bit crazier right now, all the events going on in the history of humanity, all the changes – changes from technological to morals and values and belief systems, changes in the very fabric and fiber of humanity.

Humanity is still very, very mental. Humanity is still filled with their aspects. Humanity is still following in the footsteps of their past incarnations. They're still in the tube of their probabilities, rather than their potentials.

And it's fine. It's part of their journey. Part of what they are learning, part of what they, like you, have chosen to experience. And they, like you, will someday say, "No more. No more. It's time to move on. It's time to get out of this limited tube of probabilities. It's time to go beyond even this thing you call incarnations – lifetimes after lifetimes – and time to go beyond karma. Time to absolutely live." And the greatest joy of living is done right here, physically incarnate. Yes. Eh, it makes it a bit more challenging, because, yes, you're going to have more concerns about things like your health and other people and traffic on the highways and forest fires and money problems in the world and all of these other things.

But to be able to do that, to be able to be here in this moment, back into your normal state of being as a creator, a teacher and an experienter, without having an agenda, without having to manipulate energies, ah, it is sublime. It is what the Masters have experienced. It is what you are beginning to experience.

So let's take a very good deep breath with that. A good deep breath.

"Ultimate expression comes from your heart."

When you use your power correctly and let the flow rise up through your center then you will have a natural resonant and authentic voice. For speaking or singing this is the ultimate expression and you can access what I call the cathedral in the back of your head. Here, is where you will find a rich natural sound. Now, put your hand on your heart, close your eyes and speak or sing...let yourself feel the vibration in your heart.

To awaken this vibration the support has to come from your power source, which is in the upper stomach area. Go ahead and laugh! You will feel the stomach area jiggle. Now simulate crying and you will feel it contracting in the same area. This is a reminder of where your true power source is! Also notice that you can feel emotion in this area and as it flows up to the voice it passes through your heart!

Now yawn...when we yawn we always breathe correctly. Feel how your rib cage expands and opens. The yawn is the ultimate opening for the voice/body instrument. Put your mind's eye where the opening of the yawn happens in the throat area and feel it gently opening. This will bring you into your center and this is the placement of where your real physical voice is. Not in your mouth area but in the throat where the opening happens while you are yawning. Feel the opening happen. Feeling is the deepest memory you have.

When you play a piano the sound does not come out of the keys you touch but out of the body of the instrument. Same with a guitar, the sound does not come out of the strings but out of the body of the instrument. Or shall we say the heart of the instrument. I have found that many people are talking or singing from the neck up. I have also found that people think we talk or sing with the mouth, but the mouth only shapes the sound. When you let yourself come from your power source (upper stomach area) then you have the freedom to open your voice and, just like a grand piano, the sound will come from a deeper place inside and you can freely express from your heart.

Your posture makes a huge difference in your ability to breathe easily so that the flow from your power source can naturally rise and support your voice. Here is a reminder for awakening to your good posture:

Stand with your feet shoulder length apart. From just below your navel (I call this the power point) feel your energy down through your legs and your roots, then out the bottom of your feet and into the earth.

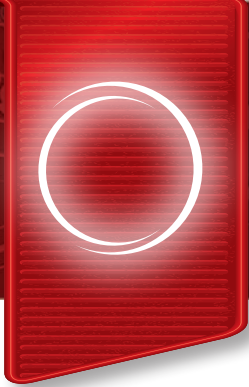

Now feel the center of the top of your legs rise. This puts your derriere in the right position. Put your hands on your pelvis area and slide up gently and let your vital force rise (it is kind of like a gentle scooping up toward your navel) continue this vital force up to the breast bone. Lift the breast bone up and you experience the freedom of your shoulders being able to naturally come down, as well as an upward vital force in your solar plexus. Now feel the back of your neck become long, and where the head and neck connect there is an indentation. Let it open upwards.

Put your finger on your power point (just below the navel) and with your imagination and an easy breath, flow up through your center and feel yourself being lifted from above. Feel your center become illuminated.

Once again, put your hand on your heart, close your eyes, and speak or sing. Feel the vibration in your heart. Do not think, simply feel the vibration and experience the full spectrum of your voice/body instrument. It is you that you are trusting. This is when you truly have the freedom to share from your heart.

Separating Into Oneness

In the June Shoud Adamus talked about the intense inter-dimensional energies that had recently come streaming to Earth. He stated that these “separation” energies are here to assist us in letting go of things that no longer reflect our true nature such as ancestral karma, conflicting thoughts and desires, habits from the past, and more. What I found interesting about Adamus’ message is its similarity to some of the biblical “end of times” teachings that I heard as a child, but – as with everything we thought we knew – with an updated understanding and application.

The many Bible passages that talk about the end times always include some version of a final choice and separation. Many metaphors are used, such as sorting the sheep from the goats, the wheat from the chaff, the good harvest from the weeds, the righteous from the wicked, etc. I’m quite certain we are living in the “end times” at this very moment, and Adamus’ words about separation make a lot of sense to me, particularly in light of this biblical eschatology that I grew up with. However, unlike the standard interpretation of these concepts, I’m also quite certain it isn’t about a final dualistic judgment or battle where some souls are sentenced to hell and others carried away to some far off heaven. The reality is much more beautiful and far more empowering.

Imagine for a moment that you have designed a grand and beautiful mansion, your dream home. With its many rooms, multiple levels, and every amenity imaginable, a lot of work, care and time must go into building it. And, because of its grandness, a lot of scaffolding has to be used, inside and out, in order to put it all together properly. The general contractor (your soul) always has sight of the ultimate blueprint of what this grand creation will be like when it’s done, but in the meantime all that can be seen is layers and layers of scaffolding, many busy workers, dirt and dust everywhere, and a lot of noise. But eventually the time will come for the grand opening.

Now imagine that this grand estate of yours is finally complete. The finishing touches have been applied, and it’s time to stop working on this amazing place and live in it. But first, the scaffolding must be removed, the workers let go, and the mess cleaned up. All of the extensive supporting framework must be separated out from the authentic structure and discarded, and because it has been in place for a very long time, this may not be not a simple task. But that’s exactly what this time of separation is about: removing the structures within and around us that no longer belong.

Like the biblical separation of the grain from the chaff, this time it isn’t about damning some people to hell and sending others to heaven. It’s about letting go of what we no longer need. The chaff or husk of the grain was never a mistake. In fact, it was required for the development of the crop. But the time must come when it’s no longer needed. It isn’t about judging other people or even rejecting parts of ourselves. It’s about recognizing that the growth process is complete and now it’s time to live! No more processing; now enjoying. No more evolving and building; now living. No more relying on others; now celebrating with them. After eons of working, it’s time to finally enjoy the fruits of our labors.

Of course, this can be challenging because it disrupts “how things have been” for a very long time. Not long after Adamus’ recent message I did some breathing and chose for these “separation energies” to move through and sweep away all that wasn’t me – and for the next few days

I felt very unfocused and disoriented. It was hard to be productive and quite easy to be grumpy, but I knew it was because those old structures were dissolving. It felt a little wobbly at first, like taking the training wheels off a bicycle, but actually the Me that remains is far more stable than all those old ‘propping up’ things ever were.

Until now we've built our selves – our bodies, beliefs, experiences and stories – with the support of connections with the world outside. We've resigned ourselves to the health issues faced by our parents, told and retold the stories of our heroic triumphs over life's challenges, discovered and tried to replace belief systems from ages ago, and used the input from others as reference points for our reality. But now it's time to let all that go.

The stories of hardship and triumph don't matter. The body heredity is up to us now. The beliefs about experience and reality can begin to change and flow. There are a lot of layers of all this scaffolding we've used to create ourselves, and it might take a bit of time to dismantle it all. But there's a lot of help available, and it will only be as hard as we make it by holding onto the old ideas about ourselves.

I am excited about unveiling and living in the amazing "mansion of me" that's been hidden underneath all these old structures. I got so used to having to work on myself that it became a way of life; so accustomed to constant evolution that I forgot it would be complete one day; so devoted to the project that I forgot the time would come to relax and enjoy it all. As I separate from all that is not me, I can finally experience my own completion and oneness. Why wait for some elusive "third circle" or hoped-for moment of ascension? That would be like signing off on the final papers of this grand estate but still living in the local motel. This final separation or winnowing has been prophesied for eons of time, and as it finally takes place, I am truly ready to inhabit my Self.

Imagine no longer having to work at life. Imagine all the questions being answered. Imagine nothing more that needs completion. Imagine inhabiting the dream home of your Self. It's a huge shift in how we go through life, but it's what we've been waiting for since forever.

Welcome Home.
